2015 Annual Meeting Theme: Health in All Policies

The environments in which people live, work, learn and play have a tremendous impact on their health. Responsibility for the social determinants of health falls to many nontraditional health partners, such as housing, transportation, education, air quality, parks, criminal justice, energy, and employment agencies. Public health agencies and organizations will need to work with those who are best positioned to create policies (legal and regulatory) and practices that promote healthy communities and environments and secure the many co-benefits that can be attained through healthy public policy.

Annual Meeting Registration is Now Open.

Here's why the APHA's Annual Meeting and Exposition is for you:

- ATTEND as many of the 1,000 sessions as you can squeeze into your schedule. Sessions are presented in three formats:
 - Oral Sessions* - panel presentation on emerging issues and best practices.
 - Roundtable Sessions* - small group discussion where attendees can speak directly to the presenters about best practices.
 - Poster Sessions* - visual representation of research and findings where attendees can interact one-on-one with the presenter.
- NETWORK with 12,000+ public health professionals
- EARN Continuing Education Credits (additional fees apply).
- ENGAGE with the biggest companies and organizations in public health at the Public Health Expo
- MEET face-to-face with potential employers at APHA's Public Health CareerMart Career Center

* Opinions expressed by authors of abstracts represent only the opinions of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the official policy or position of the American Public Health Association.

There's something for everyone!
