What are you trying to achieve and in what timeframe?

Fort Bend County Animal Services (FBCAS) would like to initiate a Pilot Microchip Clinic program. This program would offer low-cost microchips in our underserved communities, where we pick up a number of pets without identification. The goal is to create a self-sustaining program. Initially, we would like to host four microchip clinics that have 150 chips available each. There will be staff and volunteers on-site to register the chips. Through NanoCHIP, each chip will cost $4.00. We will make the chips available for $5.00 each. The total cost for the start-up chips would be $2,400. We would like to purchase two microchip scanners to be used only for these clinics. Each scanner costs approximately $400, for a total cost of $800. FBCAS would also maintain a Return To Owner (RTO) fund for owners whose pets who come into the shelter, and who are identified through the pilot program as unable to pay the $50 RTO impound fee. FBCAS estimates that $800 would be sufficient to start the RTO fund and maintain it until the program becomes profitable. The total cost of the pilot program would be $4,000.

How will you measure or evaluate your outcomes?

Recording the purchase of each NanoCHIP through Chameleon would be specific to the program because FBCAS currently uses AVID. Staff would add Fort Bend County Animal Services to each registration as a back-up, so that if that pet is picked up outside of FBCAS and the owner cannot be reached, the pet could be returned to FBCAS. This gives FBCAS the opportunity to track any pet that comes back to FBCAS or another facility. The goal is to track the program over a one-year period to measure the viability of expansion. Expanding the program would mean introducing a permanent microchip clinic at the Fort Bend County Animal Shelter, as well as at stand-alone events. Additional chip purchases would be funded by the County budget. We are exploring the possibility of offering microchip services for $15 to owners who do not qualify through this program. This price is comparable to that of other counties and municipalities that offer microchip services.
