After 13 years of conducting FAMILY FISH CAMPS (FFCs) and witnessing the changes in families, behaviors and environmental responsibility, through unique concepts like; parental inclusion, Leave-No-Trace philosophy, and environmental stewardship, Fishing's Future is growing and gaining national recognition. In 2007, Fishing's Future was granted 501 c (3) non-profit status and began an ambitious national initiative to get children ages 6-16 and their families outdoors - to show them what they have been missing, and at the same time create bonds between children, parents, and our natural environment.
