Be aware that last-minute cancellations have financial ramifications for the association, so please try to make any changes as early as possible – no later than 4 weeks ahead if possible. When our block has sold out and attendees are holding additional rooms, this will require other attendees to book outside our room block at a higher rate. When attendees cancel their additional rooms that they were “holding”, this now opens up a room in our block that the association is held liable to fill or will incur attrition fees.
