

The Countdown to NACCHO 360 Early-Bird Registration is On!

DAYS	HOURS	MINUTES	SECONDS
24	9	1	3

Register for the NACCHO 360 Conference!

Registration is now open for the 2022 NACCHO 360 Conference, to be held virtually and in-person July 19–21, 2022, in Atlanta at the Hyatt Regency.

This year's theme, Looking to the Future: Reshaping the Public Health System will explore how the local public health workforce and its stakeholders can move forward in the midst of an ongoing crisis while implementing traditional and innovative approaches to restructure a system built to protect the health of communities nationwide.

Each year, the NACCHO 360 conference empowers cross-pollination by bridging traditional public health practices and disciplines with health informatics, information technology, and surveillance.

NACCHO 360 boasts an interactive sharing and learning setting for local health department staff, partners, funders, and individuals interested in local public health. To examine strategies, share ideas, and plan actions for sustaining or reinventing their organizations, including how to build their organizational culture for the future. Attendees will learn practical tools, strategies, and concepts that demonstrate the latest effective methods to confront the ongoing public health challenges facing our local health departments today.

The COVID-19 pandemic has created new and exacerbated existing public health issues as local health officials have come under threat in the course of fulfilling their duties responding to the pandemic. In addition, challenges such as underdeveloped information technology infrastructure, lack of training, and insufficient workforce capacity have made public health informatics seem either intimidating or vastly inaccessible to public health professionals.

Despite these obstacles, public health has made great strides in adapting evidence-based practices and developing innovative solutions to meet the unique needs of each community, creating health, security, and equity for all. Frontline workers have remained engaged in activities supporting the health of communities nationwide, including supporting mental health, testing and contact tracing, providing health education, and so much more.

As we move forward and continue to mitigate the ongoing pandemic, it's critical that the public health workforce and their partners come together to develop new and effective strategies to reshape America's public health system.

View the in-person and virtual registration rates today! Early Bird rates are available until June 10, 2022.

REGISTER FOR NACCHO 360

Health & Safety

The health and safety of every attendee is paramount to us. NACCHO is taking every measure to ensure the 2022 NACCHO 360 Conference is safe and health protocols are strictly enforced.

This includes requiring proof of full COVID-19 vaccination from all in-person attendees. Read more about how we plan to keep conference attendees safe on the Meeting Safety webpage.

Stay Connected

Follow @nacchoalerts

Follow NACCHOAlerts on Twitter for up-to-date information about NACCHO 360 and other NACCHO-related activities.

SUBSCRIBE TO NACCHO 360 NEWSLETTER

Subscribe to the NACCHO 360 newsletter using your MYNACCHO account to receive e-mail updates about the conference.