

Welcome to the world's premier conference on addiction, mental health, and justice reform.

6,000 Attendees

275+ Sessions

180+ Speakers

28+ CLE/CEU Hours

Now in its 27th year, RISE annually convenes leaders in public health and public safety for four energizing days of education, innovation, and collaboration.

At RISE22, you will learn from the brightest minds in treatment, law, and recovery while interacting with justice innovators from across the globe. From cutting-edge resources to unparalleled networking, RISE22 is the premier conference event of the year for anyone working at the intersection of addiction, mental health, and justice reform. We'll even help you get to RISE22 with our justification toolkit.

NADCP is committed to providing a safe conference experience at RISE22. We are monitoring the latest information on COVID-19 and the evolving CDC guidelines and will post updates to our COVID protocols as new information becomes available.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

Earn up to 28.25 Hours in Continuing Education Credits!

NADCP is a NAADAC-approved education provider (#78232). Continuing Legal Education (CLEs), Continuing Judicial Education (CJEs), and Continuing Education Units (CEUs, for substance use counselors and social workers only) will be pre-approved from many states. Pre-approval of hours will continue as in years past, and reports will be made to states requiring reports from the provider. All reports will be based on the online evaluation and certificate that you complete.

To receive continuing education credits, each attendee must be registered with their own email address, and all evaluations must be completed by Friday, August 19, 2022 (the deadline for Arkansas is Tuesday, August 9, 2022). If you have questions regarding state-specific requirements, please email the continuing education coordinator at continuingeducation@allrise.org.

You must evaluate each session you attend, complete the conference evaluation, and obtain your certificate before NADCP can submit your hours to the required state(s) by the above deadlines.

Make sure to visit the continuing education desk during the conference to sign in as necessary, obtain state-required certificates, and ensure you fully understand what must be completed to receive credit.
