

Why You Should Get on Board for Public Transportation

Whether you ride or not, public transportation is valuable to your community. Join us for Get on Board Day on April 25, 2019, to show your support for public transportation.

Home values performed 42% better when located near high-frequency public transportation.

Public transportation helps seniors and others who struggle with mobility get where they want to go.

Public transportation stimulates the local economy

by bringing more people to your retail and restaurants.

Public transportation reduces traffic congestion, can make your drives easier, and helps save the environment.

Public transportation connects people to good paying jobs

by increasing access to employment opportunities.

You can reduce your chance of being in an accident by more than 90% by taking public transportation as opposed to commuting by car.

Public transportation is the backbone of every journey

Today, there are many ways to travel, and public transportation connects them all.

Get on Board