Michelle Turner, Chief-General Counsel, explained on Wednesday, a week from tomorrow, the US Congress passed the Families First Coronavirus Response Act, which contains many provisions and includes paid leave provisions for short term and long term. The short term addresses people with the COVID exposure, to care for someone with the COVID exposure or employees that are affected by school closure and in all those circumstances it relates to employees who are unable to work or telework. The short term addresses the ten day period and the long term addresses up to twelve weeks. The provisions include paid leave up to certain limits. They are addressed more specifically in the policy. They are required by law subject to the enforcement by the Department of Labor. The provisions are effective as of April 2, 2020 and expire at the end of December of this year and do not carry over. They are in addition to other leave that employees may have available to them.

Please Note: Commissioner DeMerchant had audio difficulties and was not present to vote, from 1:55 p.m. - 1:59 p.m., on Items 33B - 34.

Item 33 continued - Human Resources:

B. Take all appropriate action on revisions to the Employee Information Manual, specifically Section 413: Emergency Personnel and Pay Procedures, as submitted by Human Resources.

Moved by Commissioner DeMerchant, Seconded by Commissioner Morales

Commissioner Meyers noted the policy stated employees are limited to ten days and is concerned that in the event the Declaration exceeds ten days, employees would have to go into their own leave.

This Item was Tabled.
